JAPANESE JOIN
BRITONS TO CUT DOWN WARSHIPS

U.S. Outvoted, 2 to 1;
Parley in Peril.

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)

BOSTON, June 27.—Important developments threatening the life of the naval conference were in session tonight.

The Japanese delegation announced

it had cables Tokio for instructions permitting support of the British proposal to discuss reduction of the size and armament of capital ships at this party, which President Coolidge arranged, only for the limitation of cruisers and other smaller naval units.

With this announcement, the Transsition was reliably informed that the Japanese delegation has already received these instructions.

Will Not Accept Cruiser Ratio.

Admiral Saito declared Japan cannot keep the 5-3 ratio for cruisers, destroyers, and submarines, as this proposal is inadequate for the defense of Japan's empire.

Japan's sudden decision to support

British demands that capital ships,

now kept at 35,000 tons, be reduced to 30,000 tons and battleship guns from 12 to 13 inches, and also for the resize of aircraft carriers, destroyers, and submarines, as this proposal is inadequate for the defense of

Japan's empire.

Two to One Against U. S.

With the lineup now two to one against the United States for reopening

the question of capital ships and aircraft carriers, which was scheduled for debate in 1931, when the Washington Conference came up for renewal,

the American delegation finds itself out-of luck.

America must either yield to revising the Washington pact or dissolve its conference," said one naval expert, after hearing the Japanese proposal.

Admiral Saito declined to state

Japan's attitude on the 10,000-ton, 8

ton gun cruisers because "the questions have not yet formally been brought to my attention or discussed."

Would Also Cut Down Cruisers.

The Tribune correspondent is re-lately informed that Japan will support Great Britain's demand for a reduction of cruisers to 7,500 tons and its armament to 6 inch guns, however,

as both empires have identical responses to the American fleet, which has naval bases and refueling stations in Asia it would be logical to give battle to either of the other two powers.

While reducing the size and power of capital ships, Great Britain has prepared a new proposal to reduce their number from 15-15-9, in the Washington Treaty, to 9-9-6. THE TRIBUNE correspondent is informed tonight. The House delegates will stress the economic side of this proposal on the grounds that a modern capital ship costs

$100,000. Thus about $210,000,000 would be saved directly in the period from 1931 to 1941 under the terms of the Washington Agreement. In addition to this,

which claim there will be an additional economy in the personnel, upkeep and incidental expenditures.

Surprise U. S. Delegates.

Japan's action is a surprise in view of the explanation of why the question of capital ships cannot come up here.

Washington treaty cannot be altered before 1931, as the terms plainly said a member of the American delegation. "I suppose we cannot reclaim any power to make a statement concerning its position, but we in-intend to stand pat the Washington conference and the terms of President

Coolidge's invitation to this conference.

Delegates Issue Statements.

Baron Iishi, the Japanese ambassador to London, and Admiral

Saito, the governor of Corea, appeared to receive the press, and long statements expressing the views of the statements was continued in the following startling paragraphs.

basis we must stand pat.

which still remains on second reading—the amending stage. Four hours later only eight of the bills had been read and referred to their respective committees. They were supplied with every legislative device and ingenuity at the opposition's command. Every bill was made the target of a motion to strike out its enacting clause. Every motion was made the occasion of a roll call. Amendment after amendment was offered. A roll call was demanded on each one.

Proposed were filed, each signed by half a dozen or a dozen members, claiming that the manner in which the bills were being taken up was clearly contrary to the rules. And when Speaker Scholes refused to entertain the proposed a roll call was demanded on an appeal to the house from his decision. The rate of progress was somewhere about two and a half bills an hour.

Raise Points of Order.

When Representative Schnackenberg first called up the bills, Representative Leroy M. Green raised a point of order calling attention to the fact that measures could not be taken up out of order unless they were taken up out of order in such wholesale fashion.

Representative David E. Shanahan, who has voted in favor of the bills, surprised the house by adding a point of order of his own, asserting that not only ought the bills to be taken up one by one, but that two roll calls were necessary with points of order overruled. The opposition is counting considerably on such points of order. Should the bills be brought into court, as has been promised should they pass, these objections are expected to be made legal ammunition.

Representative H. H. Castle asserted that it was unfair to rob members who have been waiting for passage for days and weeks of their chance.

Mr. Green moved to strike the enacting clause from the first bill read and the motion was repeated on the second, with the prospect that the maneuver would continue as long as necessary under consideration.

Castle Warns Downstaters.

The amendments added have taken away your right to issue more bonds but have left the objectionable feature of a tax on small valuation." Mr. Castle told the downstaters.

"The amendment does not do what it purports to do," Mr. Green charged. "In the first place, it is unconstitutional; and in the second place, you have no assurance that it is not their plan to strike it out in the senate. Thirdly, there are big differences psychologically, as you will read out to your sorrow, between a small tax increase on a large valuation and a large increase on a small valuation. It is far easier to put over the former."

The speaker referred to the amendment to senator bill 666, one of the committee's measures, which limits the bonded bonding power to Cook county and Chicago.

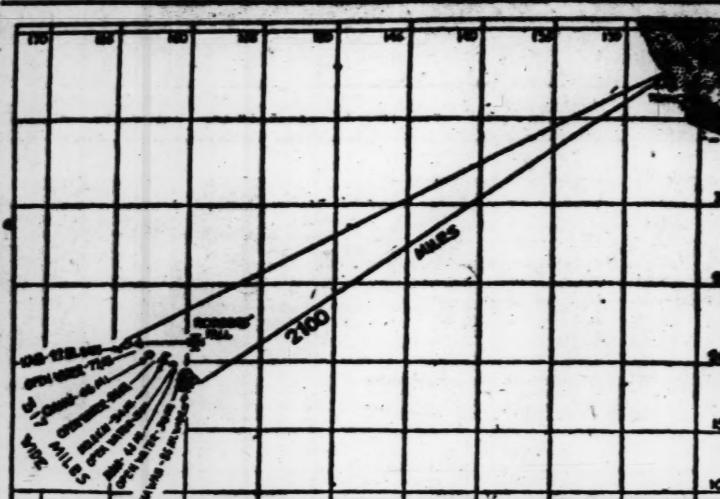

It was by this amendment that the sponsors of the bills last week won over enough downstate votes to pass the key bill which provides that the bill, instead of the one-half assessed value of property shall be taxable value.

The motions to strike the enacting clauses were defeated, as was expected. The lineup on the various bills advanced about 35 votes against the bill to 50 in the favor.

The revenue bill must be permanently shelved or else a calendar loaded down with nearly 200 bills of every kind—including a score of important measures—is just so much waste paper. If the proponents of the revenue bills insist on pressing them, the opposition will insist on its tactics of delay.

Bills, unless provided with an emergency clause, must be passed by Thursday.

Fliers Must Keep Within Triangle

CHICAGO TRANSIT BILLS DOOMED TO DIE IN HOUSE

Lose Supporters as They Gain Amendments.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]

The five transportation bills, sponsored by the Chicago companies and rushed through the senate, probably will be shelved in the house.

In the opinion of most of their friends as well as their foes, they are dead. It is possible they may put new life into them tomorrow, but educated house members predict their end will be the next order. That may not be officially performed until Thursday.

3 Points Against Them.

There are three reasons for the flight of the bills. First, the companies do not care much for them in their amended form; second, certain house members do not like the way the bills have been handled; third, the legislative blockade is too likely to interfere with the bills, that is, before they pass, a sentiment might be created against them which would prevent a favorable referendum.

Accordingly four of the best informed members of the house said tonight privately, one after another, "I feel certain those bills are dead." These have been the first time Germany has been represented at this international business parliament, as the convention is called.

Following the formal opening of the convention in the Stockholm concert hall, which was attended by King Gustaf and Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, the delegates and their wives, numbering 2,000, attended a reception at the royal palace.

The caucus adjourned without an agreement on a date when the transit bills will be considered.

It follows necessarily that the transit bills cannot get consideration before Wednesday. To obtain it even then, other bills would have to be shoved aside, and supporters of bills are not disposed to do this.

The business organization of the house indicates no interest in the bills today. Sidney Lyon, chairman of the committee on municipalities, where thirty-three amendments were added to the bills, has been attempting to obtain the usual advance approval for a consideration of the bills. He has not been refused it; but he has failed to get results.

On the surface, the companies appear to have abandoned their bills. Former Attorney General Patrick J. Hayes, who has been the head of the legislative forces for the companies, has failed to appear.

As pointed out in THIS TRIBUNE just Saturday, the support of Gov. Small is necessary to put the proposed bills through.

It is said Small's attitude is that the governor, while not refusing to give aid, has put off giving it until it is too late to get results.

On the surface, the companies appear to have abandoned their bills.

Former Attorney General Patrick J.

Hayes, who has been the head of the legislative forces for the companies, has failed to appear.

D. CLARK BALKS AT SCHOOL FUND SPLIT FOR CITY

Says Mayor's Bill Gives Too Much Revenue.

Al. John S. Clark (39th), chairman of the council finance committee, disapproved the Thompson administration last night when he declared, in effect, that the school building fund bill is unnecessary so far as revenue is concerned.

"The city's corporate fund receives 2 cents of each $1 in the building fund under this bill," he told the committee, "as a matter of fact it will receive only 25 cents to wipe out an $8,000,000 deficit. Why ask for more than that?"

Although Ald. Clark pointed out he never had favored the bill in its present form, the Thompson leaders based his statement might have a damaging effect at Springfield. The school tax diversion measure, senate Bill 175, is the storm center of the Igoe bill.

Refuses to Go to Capital.

Under the bill, in its present form, the school building tax, approximating $18,000,000 annually, would be split on a 50-50 basis between the city corporate fund, educational fund, and a special schools' fund.

The occasion of Ald. Clark's statement was a motion of Ald. Oscar Nelson, spokesman for Mayor Thompson, asking Clark to go to Springfield last night as lead Congressman on the financial bill in protest against the city's financial statement.

"I am in favor of all of the other administration bills except this one," he said. "I favor the bill to enable our bonding power and have always wanted schools built by bond issue, but see no need in incurring this 25 per cent diversion to the corporate fund. I don't want to be placed in the position of going to Springfield and opposing the Thompson administration."

Favors Carlson Bill.

As an alternative, Ald. Clark said he does favor the passage of the Carlson bill, which provides for a 40 cent boost in the corporate fund tax, and in addition, provides for a 25 cent increase to reduce the tax to 35 cents.

"If the tax-dodgers put $500,000.00 or more valuations on the tax books in the quadrennial assessment which they predict they will," he explained, "I will give the corporate fund an additional $4,000,000.00 tax base." A 25 cent tax base would add approximately $4,000,000 more, thus giving us ample funds to meet our present financial dilemma.

The corporate fund, as understood, is the only fund in jeopardy. The educational fund, I am informed, has enough money to meet its needs and, in fact, will have a balance at the end of the year and with $500,000.00 more the tax-books will be adequate for five years more.

"We do need the 25 cent increase for the corporate fund—need it badly. If we don't get it, then we can't pay the bonds and the pension. But enough about that. There is no reason for being ill when we only need 25 cents."

When the Thompson finance bills were before the council two weeks ago and informed with only one negative vote, that of Ald. Ross A. Woodhull, Ald. Clark recalled, the understanding was that the corporate fund would add 25-30-40-50 cents to the corporate fund. That division, he explained, would have given the city

ANGRY SERVANTS RUIN $215,000 LIRME PAINTINGS

Beer Bottles Are Thrown Through Canvases.

New York, June 27.—[Special]—Nursing a grievance over a failure of C. Bai Lihme to "tip" them generously enough for their services, a party of housewives yesterday evening threw beer bottles through the windows of the Lirme apartment house, of which Mr. Lihme is part owner. The women entered the Lirme apartment, took a lot of liquor and then threw beer bottles through the windows. Van Dyck painting valued at $200,000 and a Rubens painting valued at $15,000. They also poked, slashed and damaged other furnishings of the apartment to the value of thousands of dollars.

Lived in Chicago.

C. Bai Lihme formerly lived in Chicago. Before retiring from business he was active in the Illinois Zinc company, the Marquette and Hegeler Zinc company and directed numerous other corporations. His New York residence, where the vandalism took place, is at 850 5th avenue.

The vandalism was disclosed by the police today when they arrested John Healy and George Tierhan, both employed in the apartment house, on charges of minor mischief. A third man is being sought.

The three men, according to police, gained access to the apartment early Sunday morning. The police believe they first consumed considerable liquor and then began to wreck the apartment.

Ruin Four Paintings.

They threw a beer bottle through Van Dyck's "Portrait of the Marchesa Lomellini," then threw another beer bottle through a "Portrait of an Old Man," by Rubens, and slashed and ruined portraits of Mr. Lihme's two daughters, the Princess Lubkowicz and Mrs. Clement A. Griscom III, valued at $2,000 each.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE FROM WM. M. DAWES

Money Settlement Is Made Out of Court.

(Picture on back page.) William Mills Dawes, son of Rufus Dawes, banker, and nephew of the Vice President, was divorced yesterday by Mrs. Nancy Keenan Dawes, daughter of an old Virginia family. The decree, signed by Judge Joseph Sabbath, provides for a lump sum alimony settlement. Attorneys declined to reveal the amount, which was agreed upon outside of court.

Mrs. Dawes, biting her lips, testified that her husband deserted her Dec. 22, 1922. They were married June 19, 1920, and have no children.

Called Her Indifferent.

"I did everything I could to make our marriage a success," she said; "but he was absolutely neglectful, cold, and indifferent." She said he left home.

Mr. Dawes abandoned his wife, she said, while they were living in Chicago. He moved to a room by himself, telling her to go back to her parents, she related.

"Thereafter I wrote to him regularly, begging him to provide a home for me or see me off. He ignored me. I begged him to come for me to my father's home in Parkersburg, W. Va., and he ignored the letters."

Come to See Him.

"Finally in January of 1925 I wrote that I was coming to him in Evanston. I arrived in Chicago. He wasn't there to meet me. I saw him at his father's home. When I asked him to make some provision for us to live together he got up and walked out of the room. I went back home to my parents."

A sister, Miss Mary Keenan, and Arthur Leonard, a friend of the family, corroborated the complainant's story.

The trial was on Mrs. Dawes' cross-bill to the action started by her husband. He was not in court and his attorneys presented no evidence to show that he was deserted nor to contradict her account of their estrangement.

RECEIVERS SPEND $30,000,000 FOR MILWAUKEE ROAD

Receivers for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad have spent approximately $30,000,000 in the last two years in plant improvements, according to a report filed yesterday in the United States District court. The major expenditures consisted in the building of the Galatin gateway to the Yellowstone national park, the installation of roller bearing equipment on passenger trains, and the inauguration of two new passenger

STATE WILL OPEN FIGHT TO HANG SCOTT TOMORROW

The effort of the state to hang Edward Scott in accordance with the verdict of a jury some two years ago will be resumed before Chief Justice William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court tomorrow morning. First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman announced yesterday that he will appear before the judge tomorrow morning and ask that the sanity hearing of the slayer of Joseph Maure, drug clerk, be delayed until immediate hearing. Notice of this motion was received today on Attorney William Scott Stewart, representing Scott.

The reversal of the trial before Judge Marcus Kavanagh at which Scott was found to have recovered his sanity, was received from the Supreme Court yesterday and filed before Judge Lindsay.

new question we cannot deal with reference for instructions and an adequate period for consideration and re-consideration.

Asked whether this indicates that Japan allies itself with the British proposals, the Japanese delegate replied:

"Japan is willing to study and discuss the question of naval armament looking to national economy and the alleviation of the burden of the taxpayer, within the instructions given to us. The British proposal for reducing the size of capital ships and extending the age limit until 1930 has merit, providing that it will contribute in no small measure toward the diminution of naval expenditures. We therefore have no hesitation in telegraphing home for new instructions as the instructions in our hands do not cover the novel proposition from the British."

The TAIJUNK asked Admiral Saito if Japan requires an equal tonnage in cruisers and other classes of lighter ships with Great Britain and the United States. The answer was not advanced far enough yet to decide if the 5.5 ratio is necessary or if Japan must have absolute equality, but Japan intends to demand a sufficient tonnage of warcraft based on its requirements for defense.

Believes Japan Drives Hard Bargain.

The consensus of opinion here is that Japan agreed to back the London admiralty's proposals after driving a hard bargain with Great Britain on three points.

First, Japan and Great Britain will act in common in China, thereby ending the open door policy, while the United States will be powerless to interfere. Great Britain's break with Russia because of the Bolshevik formation of the Chinese Soviet Republic and Japan's sanctioning of Marshal Chang Tsao-lin's dictatorship in northern China, prepared the way for their common action.

Second, Great Britain will support Japan's demands for practically an equal ratio for cruisers with the United States, by giving Tokyo a sufficient light craft for patrolling throughout the far eastern waters. Great Britain, through claims for special considerations, expects a preponderance of cruisers.

Third, Japan will accept the British construction of the Singapore base without compensation, in exchange for England's support, when it protests against the United States establishing an important base in Hawaii.

Shows Bunk in Economy Plea.

Ambassador Hugh Gibson today pointed out that prematurely reducing the size of capital ships here does not affect the taxpayers' burden for armaments, as the Washington treaty expressly provides that no further battleships are to be laid down until after the treaty has been extended at the conference scheduled for 1931.

"Nobody can expend money on building until then, so the economic situation does not arise," said Mr. Gibson.

Japan gains almost commensurately with Great Britain in increasing the size of ships, while Uncle Sam only a thimbleful, tooth-and-nail, can 12 inch guns against 16 inch guns. Japan's big ships are from three to sixteen years old, Great Britain's one to thirteen years, and the United States' six to nineteen years. Experts consider the Rodney and Nelson good for thirty years because of their careful and expensive construction.

Joseph Montana of 1021 South Ashland avenue, who was acquitted on a charge of murdering a gunman three years ago, was fined $35 yesterday for speeding in Oak Park.

THINK COOLIDGE READY TO FAVOR MORE CRUISERS

Officials Expect Par- ticipation with Great Britain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., June 27.—(Special)—Administration backing of an adequate cruiser building program in the next congress was declared certain today by Miss Washington's son.
Despite the fact that President Coolidge proposed a reduction of cruisers at the last congress, officials today asserted that the administration would back up the demand for cruiser parity with Great Britain now being made at the Geneva conference and the United States supreme on the high seas.

It was stated, however, that should the conference fail, this government would build sufficient cruisers and other auxiliary ships to assure the maintenance of a balanced fleet sufficiently large to protect American interests.

Captain Ships Question Must Wait.

Ambassador Gibson has been cabled instructions not to allow questions settled at the Washington conference to be placed on the agenda at this conference. The question of the size of capital ships discussed, state department officials say positively, must wait until a later conference.

Officials here were somewhat puzzled by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's statement that the near future at which capital ships would be discussed by the five treaty powers. This government, it was said, is leaving this question for the present for Ambassador Gibson to handle.

Reported to Washington.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Assassination of Robert Howell, an American citizen and president of the Mayo Boat company of Los Angeles, was still unreported to the state department today by the American consul at Mazatlan. The consul said the assassin, a Chinese, was in jail, that the killing was over money, and that he had asked the governor to take action.

FYFFE PROPOSES A WAY TO SOLVE PRIMARY MUDDLE

Would Elect Delegates to County Conventions.

A new primary law, which he says will incorporate the good points of both the convention and direct primary election systems and the bad features of neither, was proposed yesterday by Attorney Colin C. H. Fyffe as a solution for Illinois' primary predicament.

Mr. Fyffe was attorney for the board of election commissioners from 1915 to 1921, and has made a close study of the primary problem.

He wants the legislature to replace the present act of 1910, recently annulled by the Supreme court, with a law whereby the voters would elect delegates to nominating conventions.

This, he explained, would require the delay or defeat of the substitute act, now pending in the assembly and introduction of the new law, which Gov. Small is said to favor, above the legislative jam prevent action this week.

Chance for a New Deal.

"If public sentiment is aroused," Mr. Fyffe said, "there is reason why we cannot get a sensible and well guarded indirect primary law in force before the election next April."

The bill now pending, according to Mr. Fyffe, simply restores the act of 1910, except that it provides for preamble instead of a formal committee in Chicago. Otherwise, it will include all the objectionable features of the direct primary and would be subject to another Supreme court nullification.

Under his proposed law, Mr. Fyffe argued, the election of delegates under legal supervision would eliminate political chicanery while con-ventionism would place responsibility for nomination squarely upon the party leaders who could then be held accountable.

"The old boss convention system was crude," the attorney asserted,

"but the recent direct primary system became a farce."

A Delusion and a Snare.

"The direct primary was a dream of high brow reformers and it proved to be a delusion and a snare because armed with the election of delegates and solid-ballot machine bosses know they can decide all responsibility and throw their lame on the voters, who, theoretically, made the nominations.

"I believe a new indirect primary law is perfectly feasible. By the election of delegates under the control of election authorities a county convention could be just as thoroughly safeguarded as the selection of presidential electors."

"With the properly elected delegates to a party convention that is strictly a party affair, all the primary evils that have plagued us have suffered with the prevention."

Mr. Fyffe said that he is gathering material with a view of drafting a law under his proposed plan should an opportunity be afforded for its presentation. Whether it may be developed, he predicted, depends on the action of the house of representatives today when the pending primary act is voted on as a special order of business.

BOMBS FEATURE SACCO-VANZETTI NEW TRIAL PLEA

Discrepancy in Evidence Urged by Defense.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

ARTICLE III.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special]—With the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti radical organizations renewed their agitation, the object of which was to convince the world that the poor shoe factory workers and dreamy fish peddler who subscribed to anarchistic doctrines were being sacrificed to anti-Red hysteria.

For the defense fund raised by Sacco and Vanzetti, $100,000, there was a demand for a new trial, based on five developments. One of the most important was an affidavit by one of the state experts relating to the identification of one of the bullets as a bullet fired by Sacco's pistol.

Effort to Identify Pistol.
The first motion, Thompson argued, was for a new trial, based on five developments. One of the most important was an affidavit by one of the state experts relating to the identification of one of the bullets as a bullet fired by Sacco's pistol.

Six bullets were found in the bodies of Passerini and Brattain. The Commonwealth claimed that one of these bullets was fired from the pistol owned by Sacco and found on him at the time of the arrest. The type of the other five bullets precluded their having been fired from either Sacco's or Vanzetti's pistol.

In answer to their contention the Commonwealth attorneys introduced the testimony of two experts. Identification of the bullet was in their opinion to be made by a microscopic examination of its markings as indicating that it was fired from a particular pistol whose rifling caused the markings.

The two experts were Charles A. Van Amburgh and Capt. William H. Proctor, then head of the state police and for twenty-three years employed in the department of safety. Van Amburgh testified that in his opinion the bullet came from Sacco's pistol.

Testimony of Experts.
The material portion of Capt. Proctor's testimony follows:

"Have you an opinion as to whether bullet No. 3 was fired from the Colt automatic which is in evidence?" "A. I have." "What is your opinion?" "My opinion is that it is consistent with being fired from that pistol."

The defense also introduced the evidence of two experts who testified that in their opinion the bullet could not have been fired from Sacco's pistol.

At the time of the trial Capt. Proctor's testimony was taken to mean that he was of the same opinion of Van Amburgh. It was not until later that the defense discovered that there was a discrepancy in their testimony—namely, that Proctor did not testify that in his opinion the bullet came from Sacco's pistol.

Discrepancy Overlooked.
Nor was the discrepancy noticed by Judge Thayer, for in charging the jury he said:

"Now, the Commonwealth claims that they have a different piece of testimony that must be considered upon the question of personal identification; first, that the fatal Winchester bullet, marked exhibit 3, which killed Berardelli, was fired through the barrel of the Colt automatic pistol found upon the defendant Sacco at the time of his arrest. To this effect the Commonwealth introduced the testimony of one Gould, who could not have come from Sacco's pistol, and on an affidavit by one Gould, another alleged eyewitness of the murder, introduced the testimony of two witnesses, Messrs. Proctor and Van Amburgh."

Capt. Proctor is now dead. Before he died he made an affidavit stating that he had at no time been convinced that the bullet was fired from Sacco's pistol, and so told the District Attorney, and had also told him that if the latter should ask him the direct question whether he had evidence to conclude the bullet came from Sacco's pistol he would be forced to answer in the negative.

Different Interpretations Result.

He then asserted that his answer did not intend to imply the construction that was put upon it. To the affidavit the district attorney replied, "I will not read counter affidavits stating that the particular question 'was suggested by Capt. Proctor himself as best calculated to give him an opportunity to tell what opinion he had respecting the mortal bullet and its connection with the Sacco pistol."

On the basis of this affidavit a motion for a new trial was made by the defense. The motion was denied by Judge Thayer, who said that the questions propounded were clearly put, fairly expressed, and easily understood."

Other motions for a new trial, all denied by Judge Thayer, were based on five developments. One of the most important was an affidavit by one of the state experts relating to the identification of one of the bullets as a bullet

fired by Sacco's pistol.

Discrepancy Overlooked.
Nor was the discrepancy noticed by Judge Thayer, for in charging the jury he said:

"Now, the Commonwealth claims that they have a different piece of testimony that must be considered upon the question of personal identification; first, that the fatal Winchester bullet, marked exhibit 3, which killed Berardelli, was fired through the barrel of the Colt automatic pistol found upon the defendant Sacco at the time of his arrest. To this effect the Commonwealth introduced the testimony of one Gould, who could not have come from Sacco's pistol, and on an affidavit by one Gould, another alleged eyewitness of the murder, introduced the testimony of two witnesses, Messrs. Proctor and Van Amburgh."

Capt. Proctor is now dead. Before he died he made an affidavit stating that he had at no time been convinced that the bullet was fired from Sacco's pistol, and so told the District Attorney, and had also told him that if the latter should ask him the direct question whether he had evidence to conclude the bullet came from Sacco's pistol he would be forced to answer in the negative.

Different Interpretations Result.

He then asserted that his answer did not intend to imply the construction that was put upon it. To the affidavit the district attorney replied, "I will not read counter affidavits stating that the particular question 'was suggested by Capt. Proctor himself as best calculated to give him an opportunity to tell what opinion he had respecting the mortal bullet and its connection with the Sacco pistol."

On the basis of this affidavit a motion for a new trial was made by the defense. The motion was denied by Judge Thayer, who said that the questions propounded were clearly put, fairly expressed, and easily understood."

Other motions for a new trial, all denied by Judge Thayer, were based on five developments. One of the most important was an affidavit by one of the state experts relating to the identification of one of the bullets as a bullet

fired by Sacco's pistol.

Six bullets were found in the bodies of Passerini and Brattain. The Commonwealth claimed that one of these bullets was fired from the pistol owned by Sacco and found on him at the time of the arrest. The type of the other five bullets precluded their having been fired from either Sacco's or Vanzetti's pistol.

In answer to their contention the Commonwealth attorneys introduced the testimony of two experts. Identification of the bullet was in their opinion to be made by a microscopic examination of its markings as indicating that it was fired from a particular pistol whose rifling caused the markings.

The two experts were Charles A. Van Amburgh and Capt. William H. Proctor, then head of the state police and for twenty-three years employed in the department of safety. Van Amburgh testified that in his opinion the bullet came from Sacco's pistol.

Testimony of Experts.
The material portion of Capt. Proctor's testimony follows:

"Have you an opinion as to whether bullet No. 3 was fired from the Colt automatic which is in evidence?" "A. I have." "What is your opinion?" "My opinion is that it is consistent with being fired from that pistol."

The defense also introduced the evidence of two experts who testified that in their opinion the bullet could not have been fired from Sacco's pistol.

At the time of the trial Capt. Proctor's testimony was taken to mean that he was of the same opinion of Van Amburgh. It was not until later that the defense discovered that there was a discrepancy in their testimony—namely, that Proctor did not testify that in his opinion the bullet came from Sacco's pistol.

14 PLANES FINISH FIRST JUMP OF RELIABILITY TOUR

Stop in Buffalo After Flight from Detroit.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—Fourteen airplanes, representing the latest builders have to offer, squatted side by side on the municipal air field to night, having acquitted themselves well on the first leg of the third national air tour, which is to carry them over 4,110 miles in the east, south and west.

The planes, competing for the Edsel B. Ford trophy and for cash prizes, are out to demonstrate the reliability of aerial transportation for both passengers and freight.

Stinson Plane in Lead.

Twelve of them attained their full point scores on today's run of 222 miles from Detroit. The two that fell slightly short of requirements were less than two minutes apart and their totals suffered accordingly. A Stinson monoplane, piloted by Eddie Stinson and carrying five passengers had a landing gear accident and is rewarded by receiving the highest point score, 406.6, which it maintained intact today by meeting all tests.

The best time for the hop from Detroit was recorded by a Pitcairn PA-5, piloted by James C. Ray in an elapsed time of 1 hour 55 minutes and 59 seconds. It was the first plane to arrive, and was followed closely by Eagle Rock OX-5, which Pilot Floyd P. Cleverger brought across the finish line 1 hour 55 minutes and 57 seconds after it left Detroit.

Riding in the U. S. navy Ford transport plane a great silver craft that has capacity of eight passengers besides the pilot and mechanic, Capt. William P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aviation, and Edward Warner, secretary of the aerial division of the navy. These officials are making the trip as observers. The plane is not in the competition.

Never Welcome Aviators.

Thousands of persons visited Buffalo's 513 acre airport to see the planes arrive. The entire city government, including Mayor Frank X. Schwab, the commissioners and the council, was on hand to welcome the fourteen pilots and fifty passengers who compose the personnel of the tour.

The first flight for Geneva, ninety miles east of this city, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. After a luncheon stop at that city the planes will proceed to Schenectady to spend Tuesday night.

CHAMBERLIN AND LEVINE CONFESS BEING HOMESICK

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WARSAW, June 27.—"Well, sure we glad to be back to the United States," Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine told THE TRIBUNE correspondent, who was the first to greet them upon their arrival at Warsaw by air in the Columbia from Marienbad at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The flyers both appeared weary by the long distance of their travels.

"We had a tough time," Mr. Chamberlin said. "Going over the Bohemian mountains from Marienbad we were in danger of striking the peaks, we had to fly so low. The rain and fog made it the worst day we have had in Europe. In Poland we lost our way."

The flyers denied any intention of visiting Moscow. They will fly to Zurich tomorrow to meet their wives.

Lindbergh Guest of Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 27.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, trans-Atlantic flyer, who will visit Ottawa this week at the invitation of the Canadian government, will be the guest of Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King.

PROMISES PASSENGER AIRSHIPS FROM COAST TO COAST ON AUG. 1

San Francisco, Cal., June 27.—(AP)—Transcontinental airplane passenger service from San Francisco to New York, in about thirty hours, will be made available to the public about Aug. 1, when the air mail lines will have been taken over by commercial organizations, it was announced here today by Captain E. G. Schungel, president of the Boeing Air Transport, Inc.

After the company's pilots have made their initial trips over the San Francisco-Chicago route, regular passenger service between those cities will be inaugurated, it was stated.

The Chicago-to-New York leg of the service will be made available about a month after the San Francisco-Chicago line is established.

The San Francisco-Chicago planes will be equipped to carry two passengers and baggage to a maximum load of 1,000 pounds. Standard operating time is 22½ hours for the full route. Twenty-five planes will be put into service on the opening day, it was said.

CHICAGO FLYER'S PLANE WRECKED BY JOY RIDERS

Omaha, Neb., June 27.—(Special.)

The first complaint ever to be registered against airplane riders was filed here today against Dan Morris and H. J. Flynn, reserve members of the army air service, by A. W. Yackay, head of the Yackay Aircraft corporation of Chicago. Yackay flew with a passenger to Omaha Saturday and planned to take R. M. Hoffmann garage owner to Council Bluffs, Iowa, Sunday. When they went to the air field to get their plane they discovered it was gone. Sending pursuit planes in search they found their own plane wrecked.

The joyriders having used the emergency gasoline instead of the regular fuel.

Just over the Missouri river they ran out of gas, but managed to land inside the Council Bluffs city limits breaking the propeller and landing gear in going down. Criminal charges will not be pressed, according to Yackay.

Killed Self in Second Attempt.

Edmund Minterfield, 77, of 7855 Jackson boulevard, Chicago, committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat.

Three days ago he attempted to end his life, but was unsuccessful. He had been ill with all his health.

BYRD WILL FLY BACK IF TRIP OVER IS SUCCESS

New York, June 27.—(Special)—Commander Richard E. Byrd today revealed that he is planning to fly his plane from America, back to New York from Europe if his eastward trip is successful.

Several days ago he had said that he hoped to discover on the flight scientific data which might help those flying this way, as well as facts regarding the best passage eastward. It was not until today, however, that he definitely committed himself to the proposition of a round trip to Europe.

While going to Europe he plans to fly quite high, possibly at 15,000 feet, but on the trip back he intimated that the plane would be flown at a much lower elevation in order to save fuel and to make good use of currents on the passage over the Atlantic.

Weather conditions on the Atlantic make it impossible for Byrd to fly for about two days.

PLANE AND SHIP TRAVEL TO BERLIN WILL BE LINKED

Cities to Berlin in six days. That according to Heinz Schungel, American manager for the North German Lloyd steamship company, is the next step in passenger transportation. Herr Schungel, who stopped at the Bismarck hotel yesterday on a business trip from New York, said that the exploits of Col. Lindbergh and other aviators were spreading the era of air passenger service in the United States.

COOLIDGE KEEPS TO TRADITIONS OF PRESIDENCY

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Rapid City, S. D., June 27.—[Special.]—Even in the informal surroundings of his vacation home in the far west, where he probably is in less contact with the public than in any part of the country, the President is surrounded by all the careful protection that is given him in Washington. And he maintains the dignity of his office under all circumstances.

Calvin Coolidge might stroll into the hills or down the stream alone, but not the President. Grace Coolidge might sit in her rocker in the old Vermonter hills in summer, but not the President's wife. Not even when she goes fishing.

The President rather broke the rules

last night when he found Bob Ray, his white collie, was missing. After fretting about it for half an hour, he started off alone to find the dog. He went to the barns and was told the dog was last seen going up a steep, nearby hill. The President started off alone and after half an hour's hunt came back with the dog. And all was peaceful again in the summer White House.

South Dakota Losses Curiosity.

South Dakota people are leaving the President alone. They have lost their first curiosity and do not follow him or stare at him any more than Washingtonians do. His black limousine goes through the streets of Rapid City and other towns in the vicinity almost unnoticed.

In the executive offices in the town high school a strict decorum is maintained. Pat McKenna, official doorkeeper who functions in Washington, is at the same job here. The entrance near the President's own office is locked and visitors enter the far end of the building and pass the secretary of secret service, clerks and secretaries before they get near the President.

Business as Usual.

Sitting behind a long table piled and telegrams in front of him and cheerfully handy, the President transacts business just as in Washington, although his daily office hours are shorter and his visitors much fewer. At state and other press conferences the President is forced seated at his desk reading, with a glint of humor or a frown, the typed questions that have been sent in by correspondents.

On the occasions when the President is to meet a delegation or make any formal appearance, everything is planned in advance in Washington. The President might be as informal as an old sheet, if he had his way, but he is bound by tradition, and feels that the dignity of the office must be preserved.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge walk about six miles daily. Unless there is a social gathering, he spends the evening in his usual way, the President reading, Mrs. Coolidge sewing or reading.

Stressmann Arrives
in Oslo for Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway, June 27.—The German foreign minister, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, arriving at Oslo tonight, received a great ovation. He is here to receive the Nobel peace prize and make an address on Wednesday.

LOWDEN CLAIMS HE IS UNAWARE OF S. D. FAVOR

If there is any difference between a horse race and a Republican presidential race it is that a horse's owner will talk about his chances but the owner of a presidential boom will not.

Mr. Lowden, who returned from Europe yesterday, was interviewed by reporters of the press corps, who were pleased yesterday by interviews of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden and United States Senator William E.

Lowden "Unaware" of Favor.

Mr. Lowden, at the Blackstone hotel, was modestly "unaware" that he is reported to be holding his own with President Coolidge in South Dakota. "It's a pleasant feeling," he admitted, "for any one to learn that the good citizens of any state favor him for President and that the middle west is more than exceptionally high of him." But why talk of it? In Asia, Senator Borah, a block away at the Congress hotel, was mildly interested at mention of the name of Gov. Lowden. So, too, concerning President Coolidge, and the senator said something like this: "Why ask me; why not ask President Coolidge?"

Three Corners Rule.

Concerning the Democrats it was thought the race to be between Gov. Al Smith of New York, Senator James Reed of Missouri, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, and with no preference expressed on his part. That wouldn't be good politics, he said.

The other Smith, Frank L. senator elect from Illinois, will have a harder fight. His election into the senate will be a bit of political windmill work.

Mr. Lowden, Senator Borah thought, was pleased yesterday by interviews of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden and United States Senator William E.

FLYERS' BEACON IS PLANNED FOR ROANOKE BLDG.

Plans for the construction of a powerful beacon light on the top of the new Roanoke building in the loop, as a guide post to night flyers, were announced yesterday by Walter J. Greenbaum, vice president of the Greenbaum Sons Investment company, as he landed in New York from Europe.

Mr. Greenbaum, who returned on the Leviathan, said he had studied and investigated aviation, particularly night flying, during his six months abroad. He said that his plan has the backing of the Senate's McCracken Jr., assistant secretary of war for aviation, with whom it has been discussed; that he himself is not interested in any commercial flying proposition, but is putting up the light simply that Chicago may keep a stride with the rapidly developing aviation of the United States.

The light, he added, will be known as the Greenbaum light. He said that Leander J. and R. Hall McCormick, owners of the Roanoke building, will cooperate.

RUBBER FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

Gen. Wood, governor of the Philippines now in the United States, says that the rubber growing lands of the islands could be brought to cultivation sufficient for American needs, making this country independent of trade restrictions such as have been imposed by the British increasing American costs. Furthermore, there is suitable labor in the islands. The drawback to development in American regions south of the United States is the lack of labor on the soil. The native will not or cannot do it.

The Philippines could produce rubber, but before American capital will be attracted it must know with more certainty what the future of the islands is to be. It will be a long inviting prospect if a native government is to have full control and be subjected to all the uncertainty of international affairs on its own strength, particularly after the islands have a rich resource well developed.

In peace times a well stabilized Philippine situation with the conditions of government and protection assured could produce American rubber. If there were the emergency of war there would be another question. That would increase the demand for rubber and make its delivery uncertain. It would require the naval control of the Pacific to guarantee an unbroken trade route. Otherwise American rubber would be where the United States could not get it when it needed it most.

When the American delegates in Geneva are considering American naval requirements they cannot limit themselves to the present. That is one inherent trouble with any agreement. Its practicality can be upset by a change which it has not contemplated and which it cannot bind.

FEDERAL PROTECTION FOR PROHIBITION AGENTS.

The federal dry agents in Detroit who rammed a launch and killed a father and his daughter has had the protection of the federal court extended to him. The evidence showed that he ran into the pleasure boat with no circumstance which could excuse his disregard of precaution and some of the details authentically vouched for are incredible in their very nature. A third occupant of the launch who was hurt but escaped death said that the agent had to disentangle his boat from the dress of the little girl he had killed, but that did not affect him. He proceeded on his way without concern even for the injured man struggling in the water.

The case has been taken from the state courts, where it would have been tried if the accused were not in federal service, and has been taken over by the federal courts, which, in many instances of murder and manslaughter by dry agents, have revealed their intent to protect the criminal as if the crime were a necessary incident to the discharge of public duty. The recklessness, insolence, brutality, and violence of prohibition agents have been distinguishing the personnel of enforcement more and more. Their disregard of the rights of citizens, of their lives and their property, is marked more conspicuously day by day, and much of that undoubtedly can be attributed to the confidence inspired that they will not be held responsible to the state courts for the crimes they commit in a state.

Consequently elements in the enforcement force are revealing the lawlessness of banditry and considerably less consideration for human life.

SENATOR WHEELER AS SPOKESMAN FOR AMERICA.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and his traveling companion, Senator Guy D. Goff of West Virginia and Congressman Leonidas C. Dyer, were entertained by the officials of the Nanking Nationalist government at Shanghai. Senator Wheeler told his Chinese hosts that the American people were sympathetic with Chinese National aspirations and did not want anything of China except friendship.

For the purposes of a dinner speech these senators were impeccable, being not only in good form for the occasion but with considerable truth for any occasion. The doubt that Senator Wheeler confined himself to such remarks as were cabled has cause in his habit of speech and thought. He is not a spokesman for American foreign policy, being in the main a professional maligner of it, and when he utters a perfunctory truth we have the disposition to deny the authenticity of it as coming from him.

Mr. Wheeler is a United States senator who devotes most of his traveling time as well as his time in the senate to blackening the reputation of his country in its relations with other nations, particularly with countries which are dependent upon American effort for any advancement they may make out of the jungle. His endeavor to put horns on every American enterprise and his construction of American foreign policies makes them blacker than the inhabitants of Haiti, less compassionate than a voodoo sacrifice and as tender in embassies as the folds of a box contractor.

Mr. Wheeler's portrait of Uncle Sam is that of a blonde beast. His admiration is given the culture, benevolence and civilization of Haiti, the forward looking revolution mongers of Nicaragua, and any spurious patriots he can find anywhere smuggling in second hand army supplies to make a fight for customs receipts. For a vision which can see the United States 90 per cent wrong and 100 per cent pure savage, Senator Wheeler's is remarkable even among the liberal minded. As a spokesman for the United States he is as well qualified as a Ben-gal would be for Downing street.

POLITICS AND THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The University of Illinois alumni organization views with some concern the proposal of the legislature to pass a bill giving the legislative nominations for university scholarships preference over all others. The members of the assembly now may present candidates for this privilege but they go their way with the others and may or may not be given places. The legislators think this is unworthy of them and have a bill which would rate their students first and whatever may be left over the others could have.

This is a delicate matter for the university authorities, whatever they may think of the matter. For them discretion is indicated. The legislature makes the appropriations for the university and its good will is essential to the welfare of the school. It is hard for a statesman to refrain from knocking a piece of frosting off any cake and although a scholarship may be involved in certain mysteries to the legislative mind it is obviously something desirable and therefore to be had upon the best terms possible.

State universities get their support from a political source and that is bound always to threaten them as educational institutions. Their advantage is that they have taxes behind them. They rest on the wealth of a state and the endowed schools do not. They have this source of wealth which could be used wisely to make them the greatest schools in the land but the source can be muddled any time by watering the political cattle in it. Attacking science and obscuring education. The Illinois matter of scholarships is not a thing of the greatest importance but it is an indication that the legislature thinks the university good for some frosting and having knocked off one piece may go after some more.

CO-OPERATION GETS A HEARING.

Representative John Q. Tilson, Republican floor leader in the house, and Charles Winter of Wyoming, after spending some time in conference with the President let it be known that the administration is considering new farm relief legislation. The details have not all been worked out, but what is expected is described as an "advanced co-operative bill."

It can hardly be denied that in the excitement of recent congressional consideration of farm relief, some of the possible contributions of co-operative marketing to farm prosperity were neglected. The sessions of the American Institute of Co-operation at Northwestern university have served as a reminder of what can be done, along these lines by competent business management in the farmers' interest. A striking example was furnished by C. H. Burnell, president of the Manitoba Grain Growers, Ltd. More than half of Canada's wheat production is now sold co-operatively, he said, and the organization makes free use of the opportunity to trade in futures on the board of trade.

"We work the ordinary grain trade for all it is worth for the benefit of the farmer," he explained. He added that if the speculators run the price of future wheat above what the managers of the association think it will be worth, the association sells in that market. The board of trade thus becomes an ally of the farmer instead of his enemy as he has so often been led to believe. Export trade is handled directly through agencies established in foreign countries rather than through export houses in Canada.

Mr. Burnell recalled that in May wheat in Winnipeg was selling at 9 cents above the Chicago market and 9½ cents above Minneapolis. He attributed the disparity solely to co-operative selling. Other students of the markets may place a different interpretation upon the figures; still the farmers of this country will be making a mistake if they do not give careful consideration to the claims which have been put forward by Mr. Burnell and others at the Chicago convention.

CHARLEY DAY IN AN EDITORIAL.

A GOOD BEGINNING.

[New York Times.]

Indianapolis, which has had more than its share of corrupt machine politics, has taken a step toward better government by voting to adopt the city manager system. Although the vote was light, as is customary in special elections, the odds of victory were overwhelming—swelled by the fact that a few days previously the Klanman mayor, John L. Duval, was indicted for conspiracy to commit a felony in connection with his campaign fund returns.

Not until 1928 will the new system be installed, and certain changes in the state laws providing city managers must make their way through the Indiana legislature before a workable plan can be evolved. Also, the Klan politicians who control the Republican city machine will make the same fight to elect the seven city commissioners, who are to serve under the new plan, that they have made successfully in mayoralty elections; and the friends of good government who won the victory yesterday will have to overcome that obstacle when the time comes.

But even if they are balked in the legislature in their effort to give wider powers to the city manager, and then are defeated on the commissionships, they will at least have the newer form of government and can work for victory later on. If the performances of recent Indianapolis mayors linger in the minds of responsible voters until 1928, the citizens will be able to make their triumph complete.

As usual, despite the efforts of respectable colored people in the city and from elsewhere to win members of their race over to the new idea, the Negro wards are still largely with the machine. It is largely a Klan machine, but its Klanishness is not directed against Negroes, and colored politicians have been kept in line for many years.

Though the city management plan adoption is only the beginning of the move toward better government for Indianapolis, with a population of nearly 400,000, and though it has many difficulties yet to surmount, it is the first move made by that city in recent years to escape from its morass of rotten politics. As such, it is heartening to the friends of self-government everywhere.

For the purposes of a dinner speech these senators were impeccable, being not only in good form for the occasion but with considerable truth for any occasion. The doubt that Senator Wheeler confined himself to such remarks as were cabled has cause in his habit of speech and thought. He is not a spokesman for American foreign policy, being in the main a professional maligner of it, and when he utters a perfunctory truth we have the disposition to deny the authenticity of it as coming from him.

Mr. Wheeler is a United States senator who devotes most of his traveling time as well as his time in the senate to blackening the reputation of his country in its relations with other nations, particularly with countries which are dependent upon American effort for any advancement they may make out of the jungle. His endeavor to put horns on every American enterprise and his construction of American foreign policies makes them blacker than the inhabitants of Haiti, less compassionate than a voodoo sacrifice and as tender in embassies as the folds of a box contractor.

A LINE OF TYPE OR TWO

How to live like the gods and where they are.

A LA PLACE DE LA CONCORDE!

ALLONS!

We start our tour around Paris at the Place de la Concorde. That's a grand little center for the tourist, for after you know the Place de la Concorde well you get yourself orientated and know what's where in Paris. Find your way down to the Place de la Concorde under your own steam. We don't know where you're stopping, but if you have your map (oh, you must have your little map) you can find it. And first you and the concierge (pronounce him caw-nie-yair) The concierge always tells you everything—that it looks like rats and you had better take your umbrella, that there's no mail, that there's another war in the Balkans, and that your face is dirty. Don't wait until you go away before tipping the concierge. Tip him now and help him get up to your room if you come home that way, instead of telling the chauffeur he never saw you and that you had better be taken to the police station, as from the mean look in your face you are probably wanted for murder.

Anyhow, you approach your concierge with a bright smile. You'll know him—in some hotels and pensions he looks like a field marshal in the Swiss navy (they haven't got a navy, either), and if he doesn't comprehend English you say brightly, "Bonjour, monsieur, dans quelle direction est la Place de la Concorde? Only you don't say CONCORD like that. Ah non, non, non! Jamais! Step hard on the last syllable, like this—CON-CORD. Always pull out the full stop on the last syllable. And in asking where something is in Paris you must get the trick of saying, "dans quelle direction?" instead of "on est?" (where is?). Because what you want to make the concierge or the gendarme or the portier (por-TIER), or whoever you ask do is point in the direction of whatever you're seeking. If you ask him where it is he will make you an address on the greatness of France from the time of Napoleon down and conclude with singing "The Marseillaise."

But if you get them to point you can quietly take a good aim along the extended finger and get a bead right on the target. Then you say thanks (main-SEE, step on the SEE). Be careful of mistaking an American or a Britisher for a Frenchman. They love to kid you along and then say, "Oh, do you happen to speak English by any chance? I don't understand your French." And sometimes you're too far from the Seine to pitch em' in. Safety first. Open up on a suspicious character in English. Then fall back on your French. But with the aid of your faithful map and a discreet question here and there finally you will arrive at a great open space with a tall Egyptian obelisk (Obelisque de Louxor) and twelve beautiful ladies in solid stone symbols of great French cities, with the garden of the Tuilleries on one side, the Champs Elysees on the other, and the Seine at the far end—Voulez! Cest la Place de la Concorde. Ah! très charmant! très magnifique!

But if you get them to point you can quietly take a good aim along the extended finger and get a bead right on the target. Then you say thanks (main-SEE, step on the SEE).

HOLDS 'BIG VOTE' CAMPAIGN TO BE POLITICAL BUNK

Means Rounding Up of Morons, Savant Says.

BY HARPER LEECH.
Iowa City, Ia., June 27.—[Special.]— Crosses to herd the nonvoting citizens to the polls, merely to increase the percentage of voting, is political bunk, viciously attacked and but fisely and indirectly defended at the fifth commonwealth conference, which began a session here today devoted to problems of municipal government and administration.

Such campaigns merely increase the size of the morons, said William E. Kirkpatrick, president of the American Political Science association. "I am too much of a realist to think that the suffrage can be taken away from any body who now has it, but it is a pity we do not have an effective method of controlling the vote," he said. "The election is to take place from many who do not participate. We should encourage the moron vote to stay at home."

"Bank," says College Man.

Prof. Thomas H. Reed of the University of Michigan agreed that indiscriminate telephone call campaigns and other efforts to increase the vote polled are absurd. He characterized as plain bunk the statement of some members that the candidate for governor of Michigan can that he wanted everybody to vote, if not for himself, to cast a good American ballot for his opponent.

"Of course, he didn't really want anybody to vote for his opponent," said Prof. Reed.

"Neither the form of government,
the personnel of officers, nor the indifference of voters are very important factors in the kind of municipal government we get," said Prof. Munro.
The main deficiencies result from the fact that municipalities do not know they are misgoverned, and it is the business of political science to develop knowledge and standards by which governmental values may be measured."

Despite sharp criticisms of governmental and popular failings this conference is not an inquest over American municipalities by frustrated men.
On the contrary, the progress of American city government in the past twenty years was held up by the majority of the members, who disagreed on other American achievements, city government far behind, it was generally agreed.

Charles H. Merriam, former city councilman of Chicago, and R. H. Ladd, former councilman of Cleveland,

former mayor of Toledo, and Dr. E. M.
Tamm, former councilman of Cleveland,

former mayor of Toledo, were among the most optimistic reviewers of the present state of American municipalities.

Prof. Reed declared that the most recent municipal progress has been made in the fifteen states where municipal home rule is given a measure of constitutional guaranty. Either constitutional home rule or the development of a legislature tradition of respect for city autonomy is the first step toward more businesslike city government, he declared.

NAME DRUGGISTS IN PRESCRIPTION CONSPIRACY WAR

More druggists, most of whom had owned stores in good residential districts, were placed on the government's blacklist yesterday for alleged violation of the prohibition law. Assistant U. S. District Attorney Edwin T. Palmer filed charges against 20 druggists, the defendants with conspiracy to violate and sell illegal prescriptions.

The steps taken marked a new development in the war against drug store liquor in Chicago. Hitherto, those hit by raids and injunctions had been stores in the loop, in business districts or in shabby residential districts.

List of Defendants.

The defendants named in the information are:

Felix S. Walsh, 5801 North Clark street; Samuel J. O'Neill, et al, Beachview Drug Store, 4463 Broadway; Frank Auhle, Randolph Drug Co., 149 North Wells street; John A. Maberry & Son, 6200 Cottage Grove avenue; John Reven and Harry Gwint, 1767 West North avenue; William F. Buggy, Kinde Drug Co., 2525 North Clark street; Edwin J. Tomasz, Crescent Pharmacy, 4100 Sheridan road; Dr. M. Stein and Sam Edelman, 7100 Sheridan road; Fred E. Schwartz, Lakeview Pharmacy, 1061 Belmont avenue; Harry L. Block, Rose Drug Co., 4359 Cottage Grove avenue; George Portes, Smucker Ports Drug Co., 2225 West Madison street; J. C. Mathieson, Drusco Corp., 3139 Broadway; Joseph A. Buttney, 4200 South Maywood avenue; Max U. Maser, Maser Drug Co., 7651 North Paulina street.

Named as co-conspirator with each of the druggists was Dr. Nathaniel C. Rogers, formerly of 159 North State street, who is charged with supplying the druggists with bogus prescription blanks to cover up sales of liquor.

Twenty-three druggists had already been named in the conspiracy with Dr. Rogers.

Tell of Druggist's Trial.

In the protest against the action, several of the defendants last night tried to run a store according to prohibition regulations. They presented being placed in the same category as the druggist who goes into the business merely for the purpose of selling whisky. A successful druggist, they declared, is almost forced into selling liquor to some of his customers.

"I ran a drug store in a high class neighborhood," said one proprietor. "I knew all my customers and mingled socially with many of them. If I had refused to sell a pint of liquor now and then, to furnish a little cheer at a gathering, I would have offended others and lost trade. Whisky is now accepted by the public as a regular stock in trade of a druggist, along with hair tonic, ice cream sodas, and telephone slugs."

"The ordinary citizen won't believe you if you tell him you sell no liquor," said another defendant. "He merely thinks that you are holding out on him and selling it to more favored citizens."

Kids in Distress.

"It puts us in a dilemma. Refuse to sell whisky, except on a legal prescription, and lose business. Sell it and get caught by the government, risking a prison sentence or a large fine. So the druggist usually sells it and wakes up, trembling, at night after a wild dream of the bars at Leavenworth."

"The average man doesn't know a bootlegger. When he wants a little liquor for a house party, he thinks of his neighborhood druggist. And he is angry if he is turned down."

State Liquor permits were revoked during the week. E. C. Tamm, head of the prohibition administration, announced Dr. Milton A. Nix of Princeton, Ill.; Dr. J. F. Williams, Joliet; the Avoca Products company, 3728 North Clark street, and the Riggs O'Dean company, 1204 Webster street, were among those who lost their licenses because of violation of regulations.

"Five physicians and six druggists surrendered their permits without hearings. Their names were not made public."

Kelly, 11, of 2560 West Chicago avenue, who last Wednesday risked his life to rescue a small girl, was officially commended by the board of education yesterday. According to Trustee Oscar Durante, who brought the matter before the board, Kelly ran across a slippery pavement during a rainstorm and slipped, falling in front of a swiftly moving street car. Kelly was captain of the safety patrol at the Ryerson school.

"It's impossible to stay sober delivering ice cream to these modern drug stores," Edward Mayda, a dairy truck driver, testified in the court of domestic relations yesterday, where his wife, Anna, of 2218 North Robey street, charged that his drinking interfered with his care for his family. During the trial, which may end today, to stick to cold water when the druggists want to treat, directed that he pay his wife $10 a week for the support of their child.

BELGIAN-ITALIAN QUARREL WRECKS ROYAL ROMANCE

Princess Maria May Now

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)
BRUSSELS, June 27.—Princess of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, is the first casualty of the long range hostilities between Belgian Socialism and Italian Fascism that culminated in the departure last week of Premier Ricardo Musolini's ambassador, Marquis Cambiaso.

It is little known that the relations between the two former allies became that all was for the marriage of Princess Maria Jose to Prince Humbert, 26 year old heir to the Italian throne, were blasted. And the tragedy is that the little dark eyed Belgian princess is said to have had her heart set on this match.

Italy Recalls Envoy.

Italian embassy officials announced that Premier Musolini, infuriated by the continual attacks of Fascists in the Belgian press against the Belgian government's tolerance of anti-Fascist feelings, had decided to show his displeasure by sending Marquis Cambiaso as ambassador to Egypt, and would appoint no one to succeed him in Brussels. A personal representative of il duce carried the dictator's grievances before Foreign Minister E. Vandervende, the Socialist minister, who was present at two or three Socialist gatherings where anti-Fascist sentiments were expressed.

M. Vandervende protested to Premier Lipari, and the premier, THE TRAUME is informed, ordered the Belgian envoy in Rome to inform Premier Musolini that Belgium considers Italy's attitude hostile, and will retaliate unless a new ambassador to Brussels is appointed by October.

Belgium Aroused by Row.

The passion of this preponderant dynasty continues to grow. The royal household and the royal family would not dare compromise their position by going on with the heretofore definite plans for the eventual betrothal of Prince Humbert and Princess Maria Jose. The court spokesman now denies the marriage ever was seriously considered, and has launched gossip that the princess will marry one of the brothers of Prince Astur, whose services to Crown Prince Leopold has not with Crown's complete satisfaction.

Princess Maria Jose and Prince Leo-poll, before the latter's marriage, visited Rome several times, and Prince Humbert has paid quiet court to the Belgian princess in her own home on at least two occasions. Breaking most royal customs, they are reported to be in love.

Belgian opinion is further resentful of the Italian conduct on the grounds that the Italians made forceful overture to Belgium for an alliance at the expense of Belgium's greatest friend, France, and only launched on a campaign of bitterness when these were repudiated.

Treasured for your walls since the continent was young

Pure white mineral rewards discoverers! ... New wall board made possible by a valuable mineral and a special process ... Wall and ceiling construction is modernized ... Old-fashioned wall board greatly improved upon but without increase in cost ... Takes any decoration perfectly, including paint and wall paper ... For new buildings, remodeling, repairs.

OLD Mother Nature left it up in Michigan — pure white treasure known as mineral gypsum.

Bit by bit, this pure mineral was deposited by the great salt inland sea—to lie a million years or so, awaiting discovery.

National secured it—a rare deposit. No such mineral has ever before been used for wall board, but only for fine architectural moldings, for plate glass manufacture, etc., but never for wall board.

Common gypsum could not be used for high quality wall board. The more impure the gypsum, the weaker, heavier, and more brittle the board. The purer the gypsum, the finer the board. Here is gypsum which shows absolute purity to within less than one-quarter of one per cent.

This treasured mineral, the basis of National, is 99.76% pure

Use National to build permanent walls and ceilings—use it in place of old-fashioned wall board. The extreme purity of the mineral, plus the new National air-cell process, together are responsible for the advantages of National given in this announcement and which in a single year have made it the fastest-growing wall board on the market.

PUBLIC DEMANDS MOSQUITO WAR IN MIDLOTHIAN

$o Campaign Will Be Waged on Pests.

A pamphlet containing information about the life and habits of the mosquito and instructions concerning simple methods of combating them has been compiled and printed by THE TRAVERS mosquito bureau. Copies will be forwarded to those sending stamped addressed envelopes, they may be obtained at the Public Service office of THE TRAVERS, 1 South Dearborn street.

Public demonstrations at Midlothian and adjacent communities occurred last night and noon on Sunday at the time of mosquito conditions existing in the area, which includes Elmhurst Park, Mokana, Orland, Robbins, Markham, and Midlothian. Anti-mosquito forces parade the streets in an effort to awake a common "mosquito conscience" as a preliminary to practical efforts to be made under the direction of Charles Madson of Midlothian.

In this territory are located the Midlothian Country club and the Oak Forest Inn, and in the locality of both these parades the complaints of overwhelming hordes of mosquitoes have been numerous. A small army of Boy Scouts and others who will enter the ranks of the mosquito fighters in this area parade the streets, announcing the opening of a mosquito campaign to the bitter end. Mr. Madson has conferred with the Gorgas Memorial Institute regarding methods and expects to get his forces into active operations as soon as possible.

Mosquito breeding spot for west side consumption is offering no problem to authorities. That is in "no man's land," out on Monroe avenue, where an extensive stagnant water area exists and no local government has been organized. The passage of Senate bill 100, now before the legislature, will create a means of correcting the situation, it is said, as it will permit the areas to organize as a mosquito control district.

"A great mosquito horde attacks Chicago's west side from the south, but the localities of Bellmont and Monroe avenues, just west of Harlem avenue," W. M. Olson, sanitary engineer, Cook county department of health, writes. "This territory is served by two main county highways and in spots is densely populated, but if without any organization, the Gorgas Memorial Institute would be able to construct drainage systems before the territory was sold for residence purposes."

See Hay Fever Relief.

Dr. W. H. Holmes, writing THE TRAVERS regarding its activity in promoting mosquito control, states: "This movement may be more important than it appears at first thought. Mosquitoes breed in wet places. A heavy growth of weeds prevents irrigation. Therefore, ditches should be dug. If the weeds are kept down we shall have fewer mosquitoes, but what is more important Chicago will become a habitable place for thousands of victims of hay fever."

"Hay fever causes a great deal of misery. Many of the victims are children. Others are too poor to leave town. Many are ignorant and do not know how to protect themselves. By means of newspaper publicity and speeches before various organizations enough sentiment could be created to rid Chicago of weeds before the middle of August. Getting rid of hay fever will help to lower the death rate another notch."

TOWER ARCHITECTS GET MEDAL OF HONOR

Design First to Be Recognized in Five Years.

BY AL CHASE.

Tribune Tower yesterday won for its architect, John Mead Howells and Edward Hood, Howells & Hood, the gold Medal of Honor for the most meritorious work shown at the annual display of the Chicago Architectural and Exhibition League at the Art Institute. This praise is regarded noteworthy because, according to President John P. Bollenbacher, head of the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Architects, which gave the medal, it is the first building shown at the exhibit for the last five years which merits such action.

The gold medal jury of award considered Tribune Tower the outstanding architectural work of any exhibited at the Art Institute during the last five years," said Mr. Bollenbacher. "In addition we considered it a building of public interest."

According to President Bollenbacher's records only two other Chicago buildings have won for their architects the much sought for gold medal during the last decade or two. Marshall & Fox were awarded the prize for their Blackstone hotel design and Schmidt, Garden & Martin were given the same honor when they designed the Chase apartments, at Sheridan and Belmont.

The jury of award consists of seven members: Mr. Bollenbacher, Rudolph Nedved, president of the Architectural Sketch club of Chicago; Leon E. Stanhope, president of the Illinois Society of Architects; Howard Cheney, Edwin H. Clark, Frederick Hodgson, and Russell Walcott.

Each year a jury of award considers the work shown at the annual architectural exhibit at the Art Institute. No award is made unless an outstanding design is found. The award covers the entire state of Illinois.

IDENTIFIES BANDIT'S FIGURE.

Mrs. Betty Cook, 4943 Sheridan road, cashier at the Triangle restaurant, 330 South State street, picked out the photograph of Joseph Sidney, 24, at the Bureau of Identification, as the man who held her up in the restaurant early yesterday and robbed the cash register of $1,000. Police are hunting Russell Walcott.

"The bandit engages in this cooperation because, first, of our tremendous investments in Christian missions; second, so that we may keep the liquor traffic so busy defending itself abroad that it cannot concentrate on breaking down American prohibition, and, third, because of the inherent character of the prohibition movement, which is to help the other fellow, whether that other fellow be an individual victim of the liquor traffic or his family, or a state, nation, or hemisphere."

WORLD MUST BE DRY TO KEEP U. S. DRY: LARIMORE

St. Joe, Ind., June 27.—[Special.]—Prohibition in the United States cannot be completely successful so long as other nations are wet. J. H. Larimore of Westerville, O., director of the Prohibition Education department of the World League Against Alcoholism told the DeKalb County Council on Klanism, which is sponsoring the "Protestant Anti-Saloon" broadcasting station project, was notified by the federal radio commission that no wave length will be available in the near future.

The corner stone of the transmission station was laid on June 18.

"The United States can keep on using large appropriations," he said, "and calling to its enforcement aid the army and navy, or the moral reform forces of this country can cooperate with the moral reform forces of the rest of the world and by so doing turn off the spigot and so do it."

"The League engages in this cooperation because, first, of our tremendous investments in Christian missions; second, so that we may keep the liquor traffic so busy defending itself abroad that it cannot concentrate on breaking down American prohibition, and, third, because of the inherent character of the prohibition movement, which is to help the other fellow, whether that other fellow be an individual victim of the liquor traffic or his family, or a state, nation, or hemisphere."

"For your convenience, application forms are enclosed herewith. At the present time, however, the commission has on file 300 applications for new stations for which it is unable to find wave lengths. I can, therefore, give you very little encouragement looking toward a wave length on which to operate in the future."

U. S. RADIO BOARD FIND NO BASIS FOR STEPHENSON PRISON CHARGES

Indianapolis, Ind., June 27.—[Special.]—Plans for a gala opening of a high powered Ku Klux Klan broadcasting station here were abruptly curtailed yesterday when the Fellowship Forum, Klan organ, which is sponsoring the "Protestant Anti-Saloon" broadcasting station project, was notified by the federal radio commission that no wave length will be available in the near future.

The corner stone of the transmission station was laid on June 18.

"The United States can keep on using large appropriations," he said, "and calling to its enforcement aid the army and navy, or the moral reform forces of this country can cooperate with the moral reform forces of the rest of the world and by so doing turn off the spigot and so do it."

Recommend New Inquiry.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 27.—[Special.]—Plans for a new county grand jury drawn, including several prominent business men, recommendation was made to the Criminal court today by Emanuel W. Johnson and John W. Holtzman, county assistant prosecutors, that the new jury go farther into the investigation of political corruption and misconduct in public office.

Drink
Coca-Cola
Delicious and Refreshing

Find Six Keys to the Popularity of Coca-Cola

PURE AS SUNLIGHT

The proof of its purity is in the testing. Twenty-two scientific tests for purity, covering every step in its preparation, safeguard this drink of natural flavors.

THROUGH a national survey the public has given us six outstanding reasons why everybody likes Coca-Cola—over 7 million a day. We have named them "six keys to the popularity of Coca-Cola." And they are being illustrated and presented in Coca-Cola advertising between the first week in May and the middle of August.

How to find them

You'll find all these "keys" (one "key" to each advertisement) in each of the following weeklies at intervals between the first week in May and the middle of August: The Saturday Evening Post, Literary Digest, Liberty, Collier's Weekly, and Life. You'll also find them in posters and outdoor signs throughout the country, and in the show window displays and the soda fountain and refreshment stand decorations of the many thousands of places that serve Coca-Cola.

Two of the "keys" have already appeared. Did you find them? If you did not, you may still enter this $30,000 cash prize contest by looking through your old magazines and finding the first two "keys." The third "key" is illus-

Just three things to do to enter this $30,000 cash prize contest

- Find and write down the "six keys" and tell where you found each one. (See rules.)
- Pick out the one key that appeals to you most and tell in one paragraph why it is a good reason for the popularity of Coca-Cola.
- Then write an answer (in one paragraph) to this question:

Other than magazine and newspaper advertisements, what Coca-Cola advertisement (a wall poster, red sign or any one of the various pieces used to decorate show windows, soda fountains and refreshment stands) best illustrates or presents to you one or more of the "six keys"? Tell why—and also where you saw the advertisement.

For the correct naming of the "six keys" and the best answer to the questions, the following cash prizes will be awarded:

1st prize.....	$10,000
2nd prize.....	5,000
3rd prize.....	2,500
4th prize.....	1,000
5th prize.....	500
10th prize (each).....	100
20 seventh prizes (each).....	50
200 eighth prizes (each).....	25
400 ninth prizes (each).....	10

A total of 635 prizes.....$30,000

trated and presented in the picture and the copy that goes with it above. All "six keys" are easy to find if you just keep your eyes open to Coca-Cola advertising. Note that there are just three things to do to enter this $30,000 cash prize contest. You'll find it simple and interesting. And the first prize is $10,000.

Follow these simple rules

Do not mail any entry before the first week in August. You must see all "six keys" before you can write correct answers, and the final "key" will not appear until after the Coca-Cola contest is over. All entries must be mailed by midnight of August 25, 1927, to Contest Judges, The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Ga. The contest is open to everybody except those connected with The Coca-Cola Company, a Coca-Cola bottling company, or their families. Write on only one side of paper. Use typewriter, pen or pencil, but please write plainly. Write your name, occupation and address plainly at the top of the first page of your entry. Prizes will be awarded strictly on merit, including the correctness, neatness and clearness of your answers.

HITCH ON TO THE "BIG MOGUL"

RAILROADS are increasing the size of locomotives—smaller and cheaper engines are too expensive. They can't haul maximum loads over the heavy grades.

Advertising has abandoned low power circulation too—because it can't "make the grade" either.

Economy is thrifty—not cheap. Efficiency spends enough to attain results; and doesn't waste thousands on undertakings that require millions.

Half-way measures squander more money, hamper more enterprises and ruin more concerns than any other weakness of penny-cuddling men.

The American Weekly is a super-engine of advertising, designed for peak selling—the highest powered medium at the service of distribution.

Its five million circulation completely covers markets which absorb half of national output.

Its merchandising energy is not fairly represented by cold figures, because its readers are consolidated in given areas—massed in the midst of the wealths of the nation.

These five million folk have an earning capacity and a spending willingness which does not exist in tank towns and Hank towns.

They live entirely within a prosperity-belt where half the goods of our factories are sold—where three-fourths of national funds are controlled—where families don't raise or can food, don't bake bread or make clothes—where brother's pants and sister's dresses aren't cut down for Willie and Nellie—where father wears his best every day, and mother holds wrinkles and old age at bay with washing machines, vacuum cleaners, face creams, fine soaps, good dentifrices, shampoos, toiletries, and (whisper it gently in Gath) hair-dyes.

Grain is sold by grade, with proper dockage for chaff and poor quality.

Wheat and cotton are sold by staple. Fruit packers reject culls. And the American Weekly restricts its circulation to prime prospects.

Every one of its readers is a possible consumer of products the American Weekly advertises.

And circulation is only valuable where distribution is profitably possible.

Rates are finally determined by the balance sheet; it isn't what you pay for lineage, but what you must pay to obtain results from the space, that tells the tale in red or black.

A $15,000 color page in the American Weekly will reach the five million most responsive families in these United States—families whose pockets can be reached in the least time and at the lowest cost.

Hitch on to the "Big Mogul": concentrate and dominate.

other sharp hitting. Then came the Indians' fourth.

With one out Sewell doubled and scored when Jacobson did the same thing. Grant singled out, then Jamison walked. Fornesa doubled, scoring Jacobson and Jamison. It was curtains for Cole, and Barnabe struttred off the scene. Hodapp batted the first ball pitched for the longest hit made thus far in Comiskey park, a home run in the left field stands. Burns supplied the third out with a roller to Pede.

Barnabe went along then for two more, but the seventh the Indians added two runs on a double by J. Sewell, singles by L. Sewell and Cullip and a sacrifice fly by Jacobson. Three more were accomplished in the ninth on Burns' single, J. Sewell's sacrifice, Cullip's triple, Jacobson's second double and Grant's second home run.

Neil got the Sox in the fourth with a walk, Barnabe's double and Metzler's single. Metzler got one on the sixth on his single, an infield out, an error and Falk's single, and Boone wound it up by getting a single, running unassisted to third during the play on Barrett and scoring on Barret's single.

RADICAL ELEMENT OF U. S. LOST IN BIG POPULATION

BY HARPER LEECH.

The London Times Trade and Engineering Supplement says of a visit to Australia by the Australian Industrial Commission: "The visitors seemed puzzled at the lack of an industrial residential district and at the information that the artisans and even the miners lived all over the city and during leisure hours were generally indistinguishable from the rest of the population. The automobiles in which they drove to work gave the commission a favorable impression of the condition of the workingman in Seattle."

After 25 years of socialist legislation there was great political power, exercised through a class political party, Australia's labor in the midst of an undeveloped continent evidently is far behind the American workingman.

The Seattle impression of the Australian raises some questions. Seattle workers ride to work in their own cars. They may be happy and healthy. But why are they? But in 1919 many rode to work in their own cars. They had high wages. They pulled off a revolutionary general strike, managed from a headquarters around which the strike committees parked their cars. Evidently the automobile is not an sufficient antidote to Red stuff. The whole west from Seattle and Winnipeg to Denver was full of it.

It is the fashion now to deny that such dangers existed. This writer notes that 50 per cent of those who have been so busy ever since decrying the dangers which existed in 1919-1920 are really establishing alibis for themselves—because they were either in bad company at that time or talking a lot of foolish talk.

And that's that. Now about Australia? What does Australia know about radicalism? The gold rush of 1850 and the one which existed in 1919-1920 are really establishing alibis for themselves—because they were either in bad company at that time or talking a lot of foolish talk.

Had it not been for the larger population into which they were absorbed, and the civil war crisis, which drew popular attention to other directions, we would have had much more of a political heritage as Australia derived from the 1848 European crisis. Important repercussions, now half forgotten, did take place over here, and one American state has a policy deeply imprinted with the ideals of "young '48." The Chicago Haymarket incident is as old as the hills. The movement was "old '48."

The Seattle and Winnipeg strikes ought to remind too blatant optimists that we were not entirely immune to the third international when it was fresh and going strong.

And that it is going no stronger now is no fault of some of the ladies and gentlemen who are trying so hard to pooh pooh some of their own cherished illusions of very recent date.

The Glengly apartment hotel at 941 Glengly place, one of the first tall buildings to be erected in the Loop by the Sistars, has been sold by Joseph and Carmelo Nicolo to Irving E. Eppenstein for a reported $450,000, subject to $211,300. On March 8, 1927, it was reported in this department that this building had been sold by Kathryn Fadner to James R. Bill for a reported $350,000, subject to $190,000.

Glengly contains sixty-four suites of one, two and three rooms, with a bungalow on the roof. It is eight stories high. Mr. Eppenstein is to operate the hotel. He plans considerable improvements on the roof apartment, which he will convert into a grill.

D. L. Oleson & Co. were the only brokers, and the attorney was Sam uel H. Rosenberg and R. R. Coville.

Buy Three Cigars.

The same sources report that Joseph and Carmelo Nicolo bought from the First Trust and Savings bank three corner properties for a reported total of $22,000. These include the southeast corner of State and 22d, 100x125, improved with six stories and thirty apartments, at a reported $10,000; the southeast corner of 5th and Grand, 90x125, improved with eighteen apartments, 125, at $10,000; and the northeast corner of Leland and Hermitage, 65x100, at $2,000. The properties at State and 22d and Leland were resold to James R. Bill.

Chicago investment and brokerage houses are being offered membership in a bond exchange which is to be formed. The real estate broker said that the cost of membership will be $1,000 for the first 100 to be accepted. Mr. Baker is secretary of the organization, which is said to be negotiating for a home to be called the Bond Exchange building, where facilities will be provided for trading.

Builders' Opening Tomorrow.

The formal dedication of the Builders' building and the formal opening of the building material and equipment exposition will take place tomorrow, June 27, at 10 o'clock. # NEWS! NEWS! NEWS!

The Newspaper Map of Baltimore has changed

IN LESS than two years the evening newspaper situation in Baltimore has completely changed.

The Baltimore News now has the largest daily circulation in Baltimore, the greatest that has ever been attained by a Baltimore newspaper—the biggest in the entire South.

And every copy is legitimate circulation. The News is not offered in combination or conjunction with any other publication.

Since August, 1925, The News has gained 50% in circulation. This gain is due entirely to a voluntary demand from the people of Baltimore. It is a tribute to the merit of the paper. It demonstrates conclusively the interest and the confidence the people of Baltimore repose in The News.

The circulation of The News represents the progressive mind of Baltimore—a mind unhampered by precedent or tradition—a buying, forward-looking mind that is ever in the market for every variety of worthy merchandise.

Sensational increases in advertising lineage in both the local and national field prove the responsiveness of the circulation of The News. For it has gained in both local and national advertising for the five months of this year, while its nearest competitor in the evening field has lost in both.

Therefore, The News is today the dominant single newspaper force of Baltimore — hence, the most resultful and the most economical medium in Baltimore must be The News—circulation and advertising gains furnish concrete proof of this statement.

A penalty the national advertiser does not have to pay.

The Baltimore News does not penalize the National Advertiser in favor of the Local Advertiser. It does not force the National Advertiser to use both The Evening News and Morning American, both of which are of the same ownership. National Advertisers can buy them the same as Local Advertisers, that is, optional.

This policy, in the opinion of The News, is both just and sound, for it makes no unnecessary and wasteful duplication.

They Wouldn't Believe

By ROY VICKERS.

SYNOPSIS.
On the way to Donald Briery's house for luncheon Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancee, and her friend Olive Weston who stand a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Barrowby, a friend of Donald's father. Olive and Connie share a flat in London.

INSTALLMENT III. THE CYNICAL LITTLE GROUP.

These reflections had produced just the faintest touch of melancholy by the time they sat down to lunch, but Olive soon had them chattering as happily as ever. While part of her sparkled and kept the other two in a mood of gaiety, deep down she was blaming herself for her outburst.

Why had she suggested to Donald that the money might be a bad thing for him? It was true, of course, but it was a hard, shrewd truth—and she didn't want to hear hard, shrewd things. The only thing in the world she really wanted was Connie's happiness with Donald. That was all she asked of him now. And life must not cheat her again.

Connie was sitting opposite to her, radiating in her simple blue frock and white hat. Her face was delicately flushed, her lips parted in a dreamy smile. Her eyes like stars. Olive had never seen her look so lovely. She herself, in her best moods, had never looked remotely like that, she knew. At the most she had only appeared a good sport in a well-cut tailor-made and a small manly hat.

She began to take in the details of the room—a simple, solid, friendly room. It would have to be lightened, of course, when it was part of Connie's home. Flowers on the table, chintz curtains at the long French windows, new covers for the chairs. . . . Connie was absorbed in an anecdote Donald was telling. Olive's thoughts took shape in unspoken words.

"The char is delighted with Connie and thinks I'm one of these dreadful modern girls. So I am. Poor old charlady! Wouldn't she have had a shock!"

"Connie fits well into this house. She will make the whole place lovely and she will be far happier doing it than trying to whirr about on twenty thousand a year. Connie has the home instinct if ever a woman had it. I could never make a place as homely as Connie could."

That had been recognized from the moment when, as orphans, they had been brought together by Mr. Matthew Quirk, their family solicitor, who had revealed to them that they were distant cousins. Connie had found and run up the little flat they decided to share. Connie kept house, and Olive returned to it between her bouts of work to find meals daintily prepared, a kitchen gleaming with coziness and the three other rooms fresh with flowers.

Connie had an annuity of close upon three hundred pounds and Olive had in effect inherited from her father the privilege of writing a weekly chess column for the Daily Record, for which she received two pounds per week. The chess column kept Olive in clothes and, as for the rest of her expenses, she had persuaded the reluctant news editor to let her try reporting on the understanding that she would be paid only by results.

Olive's astuteness as a reporter had astounded the news editor. When it was quite sure it was not beginner's luck had he offered her a regular position with a good salary. But Olive preferred her freedom and remained, in newspaper parlance, "on space"—which meant that she had a desk at the office of the Daily Record and was free to come and go, to work or not, as she pleased.

Life at the little flat had run smoothly and happily. What it would be like when Connie was married, Olive had not yet dared to think.

"It will be terribly lonely, not only because I shall have lost Connie, but because I shall have lost the little—the very little—I had of Donald. He has never noticed it, but often I've helped him when he has been worried. . . . Connie will make Donald forget all his worries by just being herself—and that will help him. I would have helped—in other ways." She lifted her chin thoughtfully. "I shall still help." Then came the thought: "But that twenty thousand a year—I shall never help at all. My help will never be wanted."

"Olive! Donald has asked you twice to have some more! What are you so absorbed in?"

"Wondering whether I shall ever be able to afford a little car," retorted Olive promptly. "I shall forget how to drive if I don't get hold of one soon. No more, thanks, Donald, I feel a new woman already. My hat, I was hungry!"

"I brought you down here and I don't know what on earth I'm going to do to entertain you," said Donald, when coffee had been taken. "I simply haven't the ghost of a notion how to play host."

"You promised to show us over the house," said Connie. "I want to see every nook and cranny, please."

"By jove, yes! Come on, Olive!"

Good morning!

I'm glad Louise Fazenda and "Simple Sis" managed to get together. This nice young woman with sunny ways has needed just such a boost as this film provides for the display of her histrio-wares. She's good—screetching, too, but, maybe you don't know what a good old wistful, motherly little soul she can be on occasion demands? Let "Simple Sis" teach you something, then.

And as you learn about Louise, gaze upon young Mr. Clyde Cook, who has always thought of himself as short and mustached. Comes forth in this effusion, clean shaven, and very long, thin and gaunt. And in his bag of tricks he carries some of the most engaging eccentricities! You'll be decidedly fond of him before the picture is ended.

The romance between Sis, who works in the laundry, for which concern she drives a truck, and the first dance either have ever had and is an awkward, loping, stumbling affair that is being constantly tripped up by some welfare ladies whose interest in a small boy Sis has taken raise brings about sadness, melodrama almost—tragedy, and a completed happy ending.

"Simple Sis" is a simple, well done little picture, feels like a one-act sketch and not the least of its assets is one small black and white dog, wire-haired terrier, I think—with the stiffest legs and the wisest eyes and cutniest, comicallest ways you ever saw!

When Dolores Costello is the star of a picture and the title is "A Million Bid" what would you deduct might follow?

Might the plot have anything to do with a sweet girl whose mercenary mother demands that she marry a rich man with lots of pocket money?

It most decidedly might and does in the present instance. Dorothy loves and is engaged to a young doctor. He goes away and mamma gets busy intercepting letters. After a year has passed and daughter has received many an answer to her epistles, she decides what is the use and marries the man who has bid the million for her.

Right after the ceremony, comes in the doctor (same situation as was in "The Tender Hour," remember?) who is a brain specialist. They say a sad farewell and bride, bridegroom, mother and some playful pals start out for a yachting trip.

Wreck.

Mother, clutching madly at all available valuables is washed overboard—you are glad—bridegroom, who just previously has fallen on the edge of a trunk and cut his hand, you know (the doctor is a brain specialist—maybe), is also supposed to be lost.

Daughter—is SAVED—and, shortly afterwards marries the man she loves.

NOW—did the husband die? All good Yanked please answer.

Miss Costello is her usual ornamental self. Mr. McGuire is just the sort of man you like to see her marry—in the films. But the honors I think go to Warner Oland, who, looking like a bellow bloodhound, gives an exceedingly fine characterization as the mundane, unloved and unlucky bridegroom.

There are some scenes in this picture about as convincing a villain as Wallace Beery, and can make you pity as you hate. Which is being an artist, isn't it?

Miss Mary Baker and Her Mother to Make Their Home Abroad

BY NANCY R.

After a pleasant, sunny fortnight, spent in motorizing to and through New England and New York, the R— family has returned from its annual vacation, and is back at the old stand, settling up the details of news scattered in their absence.

A pity it is that all the chatter, the moment is not cheerful! For instance, I was sorry to hear that Chicago is about to lose one of its attractive and interesting young women. Mary in July Miss Mary Baker is to wed for England Mr. Alfred Landen Baker, to take up her residence in the charming London house which she had at the beginning of the season. Since Mr. Baker's death his widow and daughter have decided to give up their Chicago apartment, sell the Lake Forest place, and make their home permanently in England and on the southwest. Needless to say, they will be much missed by their Chicago friends.

Turning to happier topics, it was nice to have a glimpse of the fair Gray Carpenter at Ravinia on Sunday evening. This tall, good looking daughter of the late Mrs. Gray Carpenter has been away from her parents for so many months that her friends are rejoicing in her return, and, of course, intensely interested in her latest ideas of a career—that of becoming a trained nurse.

The Philip Mahers were also in the audience assembled to hear the beautiful performance of the Negro Gaiety girls given that evening at the piano by the bye, have recently joined the summer colony in Lake Forest, having just moved into a house on East Dearpath avenue, leased for the warm season. Among the others at the opera, I noticed the Alfred Grangers, the William M. Blairs, Mrs. Alice Miller, Mrs. Hugh J. McElroy, the Arthur Meekers, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Miss Jane Cooper, Russell Tryon, Dor Bradly, and Donald MacCrea.

Miss Cooper, who divides her time between New York, London, and Burleigh, was the week-end guest of the evening's prima donna, Mine Luretta Borl, who is chelatine this summer of the lake in a charming home that owned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cowles. Miss Cooper is a delightful young person, still in the subadolescent group, whose ambition is to be a singer, and who resembles, as one of her friends pointed out, Ginny Carpenter, being tall, slender, and fair haired, with a most engaging smile and manner.

Day's News in Society

Watch Hill, where many Chicagoans are summering, is becoming gayer as the season waxes warmer. The Frank Hibberds of 1344 Astor street have opened their summer home to the public, and arts established for the next few months. They will entertain Chicago friends during the summer. Mrs. George R. Nichols Jr. of 1550 State parkway and her son, Frank Billings Nichols, are occupying Sunnycroft, and Mrs. Louise De Koven Phelps of 10 East Cedar street is expected this week to be at the Anchorage Inn. The Wards, Chalmers, are to be in the Topper for another season, and regents at the Ocean house include Mrs. Weston F. Blair and Mrs. John Jay McCormick.

Mrs. Kimball Sawyer, who with Mr. Sawyer is managing the summer at the Court in Pittsfield, Mass., the summer estate of Mrs. Warren M. Sawyer, is one of the leading women poloers at the Pittsfield Country Club. She tied with Miss Priscilla Colt for first place in the first weekly tournament last week out of twenty-eight entries.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Strauss of 1018 North State street and their infant daughter are occupying the Hubbard Woods residence of Mrs. Strauss parents. Mr. and Mrs. James F. Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde G. Stevens of 619 State street are moving for the summer to the Francis Building home in Winnetka. Their daughter, Miss Jean Stevens, is to return soon from the Walker school at Sibley, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Erb of the North Shore hotel, Evanston, announce the birth of a son, William Louis Erb, on June 24 at Holland, Mich. Mrs. Erb was Miss Mildred Prince of Evanston before her marriage.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(Special)—Representative Fred A. Britten left today for a short visit at Montauk, L. I., and will return here for several weeks. He will be giving as a farewell to him and Mrs. Britten prior to their trip to Europe.

Mrs. Charles Mackin McCarterey of Georgetown gave a supper this evening for her daughter, Miss Annette McCarterey, and the latter's fiancé, George W. Moore, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Moore of the Fourth Presbyterian church. She wore a gown of white lace with a large train, a parent hat #6 match, and carried a corsage or orchids. She had made an attendant. The wedding breakfast was served out-of-doors at tables under gay green and white striped canopies. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edmund Blaine of Washington, D. C. The ceremony will take place on Saturday evening, July 2, after Oct. 1.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Custard and Cream Tapioca

Most people have to learn to like tapioca pudding? I wonder. A whole train of ideas along this line was started by a paragraph in Miss Sweeny's article on the feeding of children in the June issue of the Journal of Home Economics, which reads:

"In order to verify some of the observations already made in regard to the effect of color, flavor and consistency in food upon children, another study covering ninety school days was made during the month of June. The study, the children's questioner in 95 per cent of these references to the foods served. The influence which the consistency of food has on the child's attitude toward it may be illustrated by the fact that floating island is definitely chosen to cream tapioca. No one who has ever served or in what combination, a certain group of children have refused it. On the other hand, floating island is not only taken by every child in the school, but often 60 per cent receive second servings. Each recipe uses the same amount of flour, sugar, eggs and milk, but the tapioca so changes the consistency that even some of the youngest return it though hungry."

Some years ago bread pudding was much despised by a whole group of people, the fact getting frequent mention in a "column." Bread pudding was, indeed, fairly ridiculed out of existence, yet it, too, contained milk, eggs and sugar, but with a consistency that did not fit the bill of pudding.

With good bread and a meringue this pudding can be made both palatable and attractive.

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence)—We never seem able to extract the cube root of our dressing total. The fact of it is that the cubistic idea appears to be deeply imbedded in our dress consciousness and both the motifs of prints and the shapes taken on by trimming indicate that there is no mere surface manifestation.

In today's dinner-dance frock the cubistic print is represented in chiffon. Not only is the design itself striking but the colors, too, are sure to catch the eye. For red, green, and yellow are all involved in that modernistic mass of line.

What is more, the designer has not been content with leaving all the cubistic chores to his print. He has striven to expand his original field of endeavor by making the outlines of the frock itself as "new arty" as the patterns. Note the connection of the overhanging diamonds of soft material that take up most of the frock and that make it an absolutely original creation.

Above these diamond shaped pieces there is a square yoke, and beneath them you will note how the skirt flares. And by the way, the dress skirt has been emphasized widely in the midseason collections, to the point of neglecting the plate. Of course, this latter detail is still as ubiquitous as ever, but by the time autumn comes many fashion prophets believe the faze will be reinstated.

I suddenly had a ghastly thought. "Is Mr. R. a relative of yours?" I stammered.

"Yes, my father, but never mind," he said politely. "Never mind! The rest of the dinner was torture for me. X. Y. Z."
